

CA 5 – Email

Hi John,

Thank you for the feedback on the previous email, we appreciate you giving us ideas for what to add to your website.

We have added the contact page you have requested. The user must enter their name, email, a drop down menu saying what their message is about, and then the actual message. The drop down menu allows you to organise the messages into different categories so they are easier for you to respond to.

We have also added a feature that ensure the user enters an actual email address into the section. This will allow you to respond to more queries as people may misinput their message. This will also cut back on spam as they need a valid email address. The feedback error does not rely on colour. A message comes on the screen that says “please include an ‘@’ in the email address. ‘____’ is missing an ‘@’”.

Thank you for allowing us to do this website for you, if you have any final additions to add please feel free to send them.

Many thanks,

The Web Development team

EW-GL-COR

(Eoin Woods, George Long, and Caelum O'Rourke)